

Visioning Inclusive City

Framing Right to the City in Banjarmasin

Ahmad Rifai

Indonesia

Banjarmasin is the most populous city in South Kalimantan. Nicknamed ‘the city of a thousand rivers’, Banjarmasin is located on a delta where the rivers Barito and Martapura merge. For decades, Banjarmasin has been the hub for coal, timber, and rubber shipments, both domestic and international.

Banjarmasin

Banjarmasin also demonstrates the growth of civil society engagements working on and advocating for disability-inclusive policy and development.
